Current bookings of training projects already in process or to which we are firmly committed indicate that our capability for May and June is fully committed. A detailed description of the status of training requests was submitted to [REDACTED] to insure their awareness of the situation and also to make certain no other pending requests existed. The one bright side of this picture has been our ability to have the Desks juggle training dates, with the result that our capability is better absorbed on a continuing basis. We are getting good cooperation from [REDACTED] to aid in this respect.

In the matter of statistics it is probably interesting to note that on the basis of present firm bookings we will be dealing with thirteen projects in the month of May. We will deal with eleven projects during June. At the same time the [REDACTED] will be fully utilized during June and the current bookings for July and August indicate that [REDACTED] will have a minimum of two projects to handle in the course of these two months.
